FOR CONTINUING EDUCATION

Dear Friends,

We are pleased to make this Financial Aid and Scholarship Handbook available to you and hope that it will be helpful as you seek funding for your own education or that of your children.

The process of knowing where to seek and secure these funds can be a bit daunting at times, so if we can be of service to you in this regard, please feel free to call us any time. Lauren Halsey, the Student Aid and Education Records Administrator for the School of Continuing Education, is your primary contact in this regard, and she can be reached at (404) 756-7485.

Beyond the grants, scholarships, and loans available through The Salvation Army, most colleges and universities also have some specialized resources that may be available, so make sure you inquire about this with the particular institution concerned. They are also a valuable resource for information on receiving additional funds to assist your student.

We stand ready to assist you with achieving your dream of learning and growing through education, and hope that this handbook will help you do just that! May god richly bless you!

Applying For Scholarships

STEPS FOR GETTING A SCHOLARSHIP

Start Early

- The more time you give yourself, the better off you will be.
- If possible, start the process at least two years before you need the aid.
- Always remember that you will be applying for scholarships a year before you will actually receive the aid.

Get Involved

- Often scholarships are awarded to students who are involved in activities both in school and out of school. Well-rounded students have the best chance of receiving scholarships.
- Many clubs and organizations have scholarships associated with them. Doing your research in the beginning may help you obtain more scholarships.

Do Research

- Figure out what makes you a special individual. This could include such things as academics, volunteer work, athletics, or your family background.

- Consider unique circumstances or conditions that might make you eligible for aid such as being a foster child, having asthma, being a single parent or having a disability.
- Scholarship opportunities can be found in many places including financial aid offices, libraries, local civic organizations, your (or your parents') employers, local businesses, your high school guidance office, or the internet.

Send Away for Applications & Information

- After you collect all the information about the scholarships for which you are interested in applying, you will need to contact the organization.
- Most organizations will require that you contact them through the mail to request applications and other pertinent information. Some organizations will give potential applicants their phone numbers and e-mail addresses to expedite the request for information.
- Give the organization ample time to send you the necessary paperwork. Be aware of all deadlines associated with applying.

Applying

- Once you receive the application and understand all the information that you are expected to send to the organization you will need to apply for the scholarship.

- Many organizations require a lot of information from a student such as a completed application, an essay, recommendations, and/or a resume. Make sure you have given yourself plenty of time to gather all of the required information.
- Most scholarships will have deadlines for applying. You may want to keep a calendar with all of the required information.
- Before you send in your completed application, make sure to double check the spelling and grammar. Nothing is worse on a scholarship application than a common spelling error.
- Remember that the application process takes time and it could be months before you are notified of any awards. It is not uncommon for there to be no follow-up correspondence from the organization as they receive numerous applications.
- Always put your best effort into each application. Be neat and organized - first impressions count!

How to Avoid Scholarship Scams

Just as there are many scholarships, there are as many scholarship scams. Although many sound legitimate and official, BE CAREFUL. Remember one cardinal rule: If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

You should be suspicious of an organization if they do any of the following:

- Request a fee payment to apply for any scholarship.
- Insist on your credit card or checking account number. (If given this information they could charge unnecessary fees or drain your account).
- Pressure to act too fast. Example: “This offer will expire...”
- Request an advance fee to apply for a low-interest educational loan.
- Guarantee scholarship winnings or search results.
- Have loose eligibility requirements.
- Use a mail drop instead of a physical address.
- Do not include a telephone number for inquires or have only an answering machine at the number given.
- Send you a notification that you were selected to receive a scholarship for which you never applied.
- Attempt to lure you in with financial aid information in order to sell you something else. Examples: (life insurance, annuities, etc.)

- Be cautious and remember that a toll free number and official looking stationary are not signs of legitimacy. These things are easy to obtain. Before you send money to an organization, it would be a good idea to verify their legitimacy by doing the following:
  - 1) Contact your local college financial aid administrator or high school counselor.
  - 2) Check with the Better Business Bureau www.bbb.org/, the State Attorney General's Office, and the State Chamber of Commerce in your state, and also in the state where the organization is located.
  - 3) Contact the National Fraud Center at www.fraud.org/ or the Internet Fraud Watch at www.fraud.org or 1-800-876-7060.
  - 4) Call the Post Office Inspector's mail fraud hotline at.
  - 5) Send email to SCAMS-L@finaid.org
  - 6) Refer to free information regarding available scholarships and search services through your local public library, the financial aid offices at many schools, and Edsouth's Student Outreach Services.

Tips for Minimizing Student Loan Debt

Minimizing Student Loan Debt***

1. Parents: Make sure you do not fund your children's education at the expense of your own retirement. You can get scholarships, grants and loans for your children's education, but there aren't any scholarships, grants and loans for your retirement, so make sure you take care of this first. If they really want to go to college, there are ways to do so without putting your own financial future into jeopardy as well.
2. Do not borrow more for a four-year degree than the entry level salary you expect after earning a degree. (E.g. if the entry salary is $40,000, then you should borrow no more than $40,000.)
3. Do your first two years at a community college, as the tuition will be much less than at a "name brand" college, but the education will be just as good. After these two years, transfer to a "name brand" college and complete the degree there. Employers only look at the name of the college on the degree and not where you started.
4. Hold a part-time job during college.
5. Avoid borrowing from private lenders if possible. Only borrow what is permissible under the federal loan program, and stay away from private lenders.

Andrew S. Miller Scholarship and Lecture

The friends of Andrew S. Miller created this scholarship endowment in the name of the former Territorial Commander and National Commander. Commissioner Miller served on the Board of Trustees of Asbury University for many years. His interest in Asbury went back to his early years as a student. Later as a Divisional Youth Secretary stationed in Cincinnati, Ohio, he started what would become The Salvation Army Student Fellowship. Over the years Commissioner Miller had an abiding interest in the Salvationist youth at Asbury. It is only fitting that this endowment be set up in his honor.

Recognizing the significant contribution to Salvation Army ministry made by the more than 500 Asbury Salvationists, with almost half this number being commissioned officers, the Miller Scholarship is intended to provide a leadership-training program and financial assistance for Salvationist youth of the Southern Territory to attend Asbury University.

HISTORY

Instituted in 1998 by the vision of Territorial Commander Commissioner John Busby, this scholarship recognizes the contributions of Willouise Luce and Charles I. Babcock who co-chaired the scholarship fundraising campaign.

In the event schooling is discontinued at any time without plans to resume an education program, the Continuing Education Department must be notified and notes become payable immediately.
